

Name	Length (feet)	Weight	Diet	Where they live	Color	Picture
Bottlenose dolphin	6-12	up to 1430 pounds	mostly fish, sometimes squid and crustaceans	worldwide, but in temperate and tropical waters	light gray to slate gray, and light and sometimes pinkish on the bottom
Boto (Amazon river dolphin)	6-9	up to 350 pounds	heavily scaled fish, including piranhas, and bottom-dwelling crustaceans	South America in fresh water	starts dark gray, turns pink and sometimes bluish, then a very light gray
Orca	up to 32 (males) and 23 (females)	8-9 tons (males), 4 tons (females)	sea lions, elephant seals, harbor seals, porpoises, squid, sharks, fish, penguins, smaller whales, such as belugas and narwhals and even large baleen whales, such as gray whales	all oceans, but mostly in cooler water	shiny black and white or cream
Pilot whale	16-20	1.5 tons	mostly squid	tropical and temperate water	all black or coal gray
Harbor porpoise	5-6	130-200 pounds	non-spiny fish	shallow coastal water in the North Atlantic, North Pacific, and Black Sea	very dark gray or dark brown and white on the bottom

information and pictures from: <http://www.acsonline.org/factpack/>